7 chapter((§)) 43.83B and ((43.99E-RCW)) RCW 43.99E.020 (as recodified

12 as a whole have a common interest without making the irrigation
13 entities parties to the suit; to represent the entities in all 14 matters of common interest as a whole within the scope of this 15 chapter; and to do any and all lawful acts required and expedient to 16 carry out the purposes of this chapter. A board of joint control may, 17 subject to the same limitations as an irrigation district operating 18 under chapter 87.03 RCW, acquire any property or property rights for 19 use within the board's area of jurisdiction by power of eminent 20 domain; acquire, purchase, or lease in its own name all necessary

23 Any transfers of water, however, are limited to transfers authorized 24 under subsection (2) of this section.

25 (2)(a) A board of joint control is authorized and encouraged to 26 pursue conservation and system efficiency improvements to optimize 27 the use of appropriated waters and to either redistribute the saved 28 water within its area of jurisdiction, or transfer the water to 29 others, or both. A redistribution of saved water as an operational 30 practice internal to the board of joint control's area of 31 jurisdiction, may be authorized if it can be made without detriment 32 or injury to rights existing outside of the board of control's area
33 of jurisdiction, including instream flow water rights established 34 under state or federal law.

35 (b) Prior to undertaking a water conservation or system
36 efficiency improvement project that will result in a redistribution 37 of saved water, the board of joint control must consult with the 38 department of ecology and, if the board's jurisdiction is within a 39 United States reclamation project, the board must obtain the approval 40 of the bureau of reclamation. The purpose of such consultation is to

1 assure that the proposal will not impair the rights of other water

4 a change of any water right that would change the point or points of 5 diversion, purpose of use, or place of use outside the board's area
6 of jurisdiction, without the approval of the department of ecology 7 pursuant to RCW 90.03.380 and, if the board's jurisdiction is within 8 a United States reclamation project, the approval of the bureau of 9 reclamation. Any change in place of use that results from a transfer 10 of water between the individual entities of the board of joint 11 control shall not result in any reduction in the total water supply 12 available in a federal reclamation project. In making the 13 determination of whether a change of place of use in an area covered 14 by a federal reclamation project will result in a reduction in the 15 total water supply available, the board of joint control shall 16 consult with the bureau of reclamation.

17 (d) The board of joint control shall notify the department of 18 ecology, and any Indian tribe requesting notice, of transfers of 25 (4) Where the board of joint control area of jurisdiction is 26 totally within a federal reclamation project, the board is authorized 27 to accept operational responsibility for federal reserved works.

28 (5) Nothing contained in this chapter gives a board of joint 29 control the authority to abridge the existing rights,
30 responsibilities, and authorities of an individual irrigation entity 31 or others within the area of jurisdiction; nor in a case where the 32 board of joint control consists of representatives of two or more 33 divisions of a federal reclamation project shall the board of joint 34 control abridge any powers of an existing board of control created 35 through federal contract; nor shall a board of joint control have any 36 authority to abridge or modify a water right benefiting lands within 37 its area of jurisdiction without consent of the party holding the 38 ownership interest in the water right.

39 (6) A board of joint control created under this chapter may not 40 use any authority granted to it by this chapter or by RCW 90.03.380

1 to authorize a transfer of or change in a water right or to authorize 2 a redistribution of saved water before July 1, 1997.
